The ASLH office phone number is 601-232-5600 (which has a voice mail service).

The e-mail address is mlandon@sunset.backbone.olemiss.edu
Fax messages may be sent to 601-232-7033.

1995 Annual Meeting

The Twenty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Society will be held in HOUSTON, TEXAS, October 19-21. The chair of the Local Arrangements Committee is CRAIG JOYCE, University of Houston Law Center, Houston, TX 77204-6371 (tel: 713-743-2127, fax: 713-743-2299, e-mail: cjoyce@mail.law.uh.edu). Other Local Arrangements Committee members are Mr. JAMES PAULSEN and Dr. LOUIS MARCHIAFAVA. Continental is the official airline for the Meeting and they will give 5% off the lowest fare, 10% off middle-range fares, and 45% off first class or full "Y" fares to and from Houston for the Meeting from October 14 through October 26. To get the fare reduction the ID code IYTGWM should be given to the ticket office or travel agent. The hotel for the Meeting is the WYNDHAM WARWICK (tel: 713-526-1991), Houston's landmark hotel, located on Main Street - in the heart of the Art District. The room rate will be $82.00 (single or double occupancy). The Meeting will open with a welcoming reception early in the Thursday evening. A draft program and registration materials will be mailed out to all members early in August.

1996 Annual Meeting

The Society's 1996 Annual Meeting will be held October 17-19 in Richmond, Virginia. MELVIN UROFSKY (Virginia Commonwealth University - History) is chairman of the Local Arrangements Committee. MICHAL BELKNAP is chairing the Program Committee. His address is: California Western School of Law, 225 Cedar St., San Diego, CA 92101 (tel: 619-525-1457, fax: 619-696-9999, e-mail: mrbc@cwsl.edu). Other Committee Members are: JONATHAN BRYANT (University of Baltimore, Division of Legal, Ethical and Historical Studies), SALLY HADDEN (Florida State University), TAHIRIH V. LEE (University of Minnesota, Law), JONATHAN LURIE (Rutgers-Newark), CATHY MCCAULIFF (Seton Hall, Law) and SANDRA VANBURKLEO (Wayne State University).

The deadline for submitting proposals for papers, panels or sessions for the Meeting is January 15, 1996.

Office News

After fourteen months of faithful service to the Society, C. ELIZABETH PROPPS (of Naperville, Illinois), who very competently implemented the Society's linking up with the Internet and acquisition of e-mail facilities, graduated in May from the University of Mississippi with a B.A. (Summa Cum Laude) in History. For next fall she has been awarded a graduate assistantship at the University of Illinois where she will be studying Russian history. Her successor as part-time clerk/typist in the ASLH office and editorial assistant for the NEWSLETTER is MARTHA E. HUTCHINSON (of Gallatin, Tennessee) who is now a junior majoring in English and minoring in French. A Student Senator in the University's Honors Program, Martha also moonlights for a few hours each week as an editorial intern at the offices of the OXFORD AMERICAN, a bimonthly Southern literary magazine published by lawyer/author John Grisham.

Finally, as of July 1, the ASLH office is no longer traveling the Information Superhighway in a 1960's model vehicle. The University of Mississippi History Department has kindly provided us with a desktop PC that not only has WordPerfect 6.0 capacity but also "Windows" and a set of "Internet Tools" that include "Netscape" and "Eudora."

Membership Directory

As was done previously in 1989 and again in 1992, an ASLH MEMBERSHIP DIRECTORY was mailed out to all members in May-June of this year. The Directory was printed directly off of the computerized membership database as of January 1st. Every member of the Society should have received their copy by now. Inevitably, some errors and omissions occurred. A list of "errata" and addenda will be mailed out with the Annual Meeting information later this summer.

E-Mail Addresses

We will soon be mailing out a list of FAX numbers and/or e-mail addresses to all members of the Society who returned the tear-out questionnaire included in the Winter /95 issue of the NEWSLETTER.

Donations

The Society owes a special "thank you" to its members who contributed to the Joseph H. Smith Memorial Publication Fund and the Donald Sutherland Memorial Prize Fund. Their names, as of July 13, 1994, are:

1995 Elections

This year's Nominating Committee, chaired by ELIZABETH CLARK (Boston University - Law) and also including JOHN WUNDER (Nebraska), JOYCE MALCOLM (Bentley College), JOHN V. ORTH (UNC-Law), and AVIAM SOIFER (Boston College - Law), have selected nominees for two year terms as President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer of the Society. They have also nominated ten candidates to fill five positions for three-year terms on the Board of Directors, and four candidates to fill one position for a three-year term on the Nominating Committee. Below are brief biographies supplied by each of the candidates nominated. A tear-out ballot sheet is included in this NEWSLETTER, and must be mailed so as to reach the office no later than October 2.

President

Paul Murphy

Paul L. Murphy is Regent's Professor of History and American Studies at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, and Distinguished Adjunct Professor of Legal History at the Hamline University School of Law. He earned his B.A. at Alberton College of Idaho (1946), and his M.A. (1947), and Ph.D. (1953) at the University of California, Berkeley. His scholarship focuses upon American Constitutional History with a special emphasis upon the history of civil liberties and civil rights. He has served on the Joint Committee of Project '87 which planned scholarly dimensions of the United States Constitutional Bicentennial. Long active in the ASLH, he also chaired the Organization of American Historian's Bicentennial Program for the Bill of Rights. A former Guggenheim Fellow, Fellow of the National Humanities Center, and Senior Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Lagos, Nigeria, his many publications include The Meaning of Freedom of Speech (1972), which won the American Bar Association Gavel Award, 1973, for its "outstanding contribution to public understanding of the American system of law and justice"; The Constitution in Crisis Times, 1918-1969 (1972); World War I and the Origin of Civil Liberties in the United States (1979); and The Constitution in the Twentieth Century (1986). He is also editor of the distinguished series, Contributions in Legal Studies, published by Greenwood Press, and contributor to the Encyclopedia of the American Constitution, the Encyclopedia of American Political History, and the Oxford Companion to the Supreme Court (1993). He has also edited The Bill of Rights and American Legal History (1990) 20 Volumes.

Vice-President

Laura Kalman

Laura Kalman is Professor of History at the University of California, Santa Barbara, where she has taught since 1982. She received her B.A. from Pomona College, J.D. from UCLA, and Ph.D. from Yale. She is the author of Legal Realism at Yale, 1927-1960 (1986), Abe Fortas: A Biography (1990), and Faith of our Fathers: The Spell of the Warren Court (forthcoming, 1996). She has been a member of the Society's Board of Directors, Openness Committee, and Program Committee.

Secretary-Treasurer

Michael de Laval Landon

Michael de Laval Landon, a native of Canada, is a Professor of History at the University of Mississippi, where he has taught since 1964 and served as Acting Director of Libraries, 1986-87. He holds an M.A. degree from Oxford University in England, a Ph.D. in history from the University of Wisconsin, (Madison) where he returned as a Visiting Associate Professor, 1970-71; and is a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society of Great Britain. He has published three books--Erin and Britannia: the Historical Background to a Modern Tragedy (1981); The Honor and Dignity of the Profession: a History of the Mississippi State Bar, 1906-1976 (1979); The Triumph of the Lawyers: their Role in English Politics, 1678-1689 (1970)--and numerous articles. He has also completed a book-length study of "Serjeant Maynard: the Professional and Political Careers of a Seventeenth Century Common Lawyer" (which is presently under consideration by a University Press in Britain), and has written an official history of the Young Lawyers Division of the Mississippi State Bar which is scheduled for publication later this year. His service to the ASLH includes membership on the Board of Directors (1982-84), co-editing the NEWSLETTER of the Society (1978-87), and Secretary-Treasurer (1988-1995).

Board of Directors

Gregory S. Alexander

Gregory S. Alexander is a Professor of Law at Cornell University, where he teaches in the areas of property law, trusts and estates, and American legal history. His law degree is from Northwestern University (1973) and his undergraduate degree is from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (1970). He was a graduate student at the University of Chicago, and was a Bigelow Fellow at the University of Chicago Law School. He served as law clerk to the late George Edwards, on the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. His service to the ASLH includes serving on the Planning Committee for its 1992 Annual Meeting. In 1989, he received the Society's Erwin Surrency Award for his article "The Transformation of Trusts as a Legal Category, 1800-1914," published in the Law and History

Review. Other legal history writings of his include "Time and Property in the American Republican Legal Culture," NYU Law Review, "The Dead Hand and the Law of Trusts in the Nineteenth Century," Stanford Law Review, and "History as Ideology in the Basic Property Course," Journal of Legal Education. He is currently completing a book entitled Commodity and Propriety: Dialectics of Property in American Legal Thought, 1776-1970.

Christian G. Fritz

Christian G. Fritz is Professor of Law at the University of New Mexico School of Law where he teaches Legal History and American Constitutional History. He holds a B.A. (1975) and a Ph.D. in history (1986) from Berkeley and a J.D. from Hastings College of Law (1978).

He has served on the editorial boards of Law and History Review (since 1993) and Western Legal History (since 1987). He has participated as a member of the Society's: Ad Hoc Committee to Foster Broader Participation (1987), Program Committee for the Annual Meeting (1988), Committee to Preserve Court Records for Historical Purposes (since 1983), and on a subcommittee on Preservation of Court Records in California (since 1989). He assisted the late Chief Judge Robert F. Peckham from 1979-83 to galvanize judicial and scholarly support to preserve court records from destruction.

Professor Fritz has published Federal Justice in California: The Court of Ogden Hoffman, 1851-1891 (1991), edited (with Griffith and Hunter) A Judicial Odyssey: Federal Court in Santa Clara, San Benito, Santa Cruz, and Monterey Counties (1985). He has published over a dozen articles and essays dealing with 19th century American legal history that have appeared in a wide range of legal and historical journals, including American Journal of Legal History, Rutgers Law Journal, Pacific Historical Review, California Supreme Court Historical Society Yearbook, Hastings Constitutional Law Quarterly, Western Legal History, Anglo-American Law Review, and Santa Clara Law Review. He has contributed chapters to the Encyclopedia of the American Legislative System and Law for the Beaver, Law for the Elephant: Essays in the Legal History of the North American West. He is currently completing a two-volume book dealing with neglected aspects of American federalism: popular sovereignty and state constitutionalism.

Victoria D. List

Victoria D. List is an Assistant Professor of History at Washington and Jefferson College--a small liberal arts institution where she is a quarter of the History Department. As such, she teaches a bewildering array of courses, including (at last) English and American Legal History. She received a B.A. from Smith College in 1975, a J.D. from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 1984, and a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1991. Her dissertation explored the changing relationship between church and state in post-Reformation England through the records of a "bawdy court." She is currently revising an article based on that material. Past fellowships and professional service include a one-year Golieb fellowship at New York University School of Law, an American Bar Foundation fellowship in legal history, and membership on the Program Committee for the 1992 meeting of this Society. She is currently the chair of the Sutherland Prize Committee. She has been assured that she can serve on the Board while filling out the rest of her term on the Committee.

Maeva Marcus

Maeva Marcus is director and editor of The Documentary History of the Supreme Court of the United States, 1789-1800, a project sponsored by the Supreme Court of the United States and the Supreme Court Historical Society. She received a B.A. from Brandeis University in 1962 and an M.A. (1963) and Ph.D. (1975) from Columbia University. For four years (1983-1987) she was Visiting Professor of Law at Georgetown University Law Center, where she taught a variety of legal and constitutional history courses to faculty and students. In addition to five volumes of The Documentary History of the Supreme Court (Columbia University Press, 1985-1994), her publications include Truman and the Steel Seizure Case (Columbia University Press, 1977; paperback 1979; reissued by Duke University Press 1994); Origins of the Federal Judiciary: Essays on the Judiciary Act of 1789 (editor and contributor, Oxford University Press, 1992); "Louis D. Brandeis and the Laboratories of Democracy" in Federalism and the Judicial Mind (Harry N. Scheiber, ed. 1992); "Judicial Review in the Early Republic" in Launching the "Extended Republic": The Federal Era (University Press of Virginia, forthcoming); and a number of other essays and articles in books and law reviews in the United States and abroad. Actively involved in several professional organizations, she served on the Board of Directors (1988-1990) of the ASLH, the program committee, the publications committee, and the documentary preservation committee, as well as the board of editors for Law and History Review. In her spare time, she is working on a judicial biography of Louis D. Brandeis.

Arthur F. McEvoy

Arthur F. McEvoy is a Professor of Law at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where he teaches History of American Law, Environmental Law, Jurisprudence, and Torts. He holds a joint appointment as Professor of History. He received an A.B. with Honors in History from Stanford University in 1973, a Ph.D. in History from the University of California at San Diego in 1979, and a J.D. from the Stanford Law School in 1989. Previously he held appointments as an Associate Professor of History at Northwestern University and as a Research Fellow at the American Bar Foundation, where he was co-editor of the Foundation's journal, Law & Social Inquiry. He is the author of The Fisherman's Problem: Ecology and Law in the California Fisheries, 1850-1980 (Cambridge, 1986), which won prizes from the Law and Society Association, the American Historical Association, the American Society for Environmental History, and the North American Society for Oceanic History. He is currently at work on a history of industrial safety law in the United States, with support from the National Science Foundation and the American Bar Foundation. Articles from that project will be published in 1995 in Technology & Culture and Law & Social Inquiry.

He served on the Program Committee for the Law and Society Association in 1989, and was Chair of the J. Willard Hurst prize committee in 1992-93. He was a member of the Program Committee for the American Society for Legal History in 1990-91 and served as Program Chair for the 1992 meeting at Yale. He was a Director of the American Society for Environmental History from 1989 to 1995, a member of the Society's Program Committee in 1989, and chair of the George Perkins Marsh prize committee in 1990. At Northwestern University he served as a member of the President's Ad Hoc Committee on the Improvement and Evaluation of Teaching in 1990-92 and served as Chair of the Steering Committee for the University's Center for Effective Teaching in 1991-92.

His advocacy work includes service as Counsel of Record for Amicus Legal Historians in Honda Motor Co. v. Oberg, US Supreme Court No. 93-644, and as consultant and expert witness for plaintiff tribes in US v. Washington, as well as informal consultation with the Wisconsin Departments of Justice and Consumer Affairs on questions of legal history and constitutional interpretation.

William J. Novak

William J. Novak is an Assistant Professor of History and Co-Director of the Center for Comparative Legal History at the University of Chicago where he teaches courses on American legal, constitutional, and political history and law and social theory. He received his B.A. and M.A. in American History from Case Western Reserve University in 1983 and his Ph.D. in the History of American Civilization in 1992 from Brandeis University. He was Legal History Fellow and Assistant Director of the Institute for Legal Studies at the University of Wisconsin Law School from 1988-91. He has published articles on law, the state, regulation, and nineteenth-century American social and economic life in Law and Social Inquiry and the Hastings Law Journal. His book The People's Welfare: Law and Regulation in Nineteenth-Century America is forthcoming in the ASLH Legal History Series at UNC Press. Bill served on the Program Committee of ASLH in 1992 & 1994.

David Sugarman

David Sugarman is a Professor of Law and Director of the Law in History Program, Lancaster University, England. He is a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society and the Society's Honorary Legal Adviser and an Associate Research Fellow of the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies, London University. He studied law at the Universities of Hull and Cambridge and received his doctorate in legal history from Harvard Law School. He has been a visiting professor of legal history at law schools in Canada, Japan, Spain and the United States and has held visiting fellowships at the Davis Center for Historical Studies, Princeton University, the Center for Legal Studies, Wisconsin University, and at the Department of Political Science, Amherst College. His publications include Legality, Ideology and the State (editor, 1983), Law, Economy and Society, 1750-1914: Essays in the History of English Law (co-editor, 1984), Law and Social Change in England, 1780-1900 (1993), Professional Competition and Professional Power: Lawyers, Accountants and the Social Construction of Markets (co-editor, 1995) and A Brief History of the Law Society (1995). A two volume work entitled Law in History is currently in press.

Professor Sugarman has served on the Board of Trustees of the Law and Society Association and is on the editorial boards of The Journal of Legal History, The Canadian Journal of Law and Society, Continuity and Change, Law and Social Inquiry (the Journal of the American Bar Foundation), The International Journal of the Legal Profession and Studies in Law, Politics and Society.

Sandra F. VanBurkleo

After an instructive (read "disastrous") career in accounting (!), Sandra VanBurkleo, Associate Professor of History at Wayne State University in Detroit, received a B.A. from Hamline University, St. Paul, and both the M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, the latter in 1988-89. One of her articles won the 1989 Best Article Award in Journal of the Early Republic; review essays and articles appear in other journals. Among recent publications is a chapter in Michael Belknap, ed., American Political Trials, rev. ed. ("To Bee Rooted Out of Her Station": The Ordeal of Anne Hutchinson"). She has a keen interest in documentary editing (once an assistant editor for the Documentary History of the Supreme Court) and in bridge-building between 'the public,' pre-collegiate teachers, and the groves of academe. Toward that end, she has written articles (often about women and law) for periodicals like Magazine of History and Constitution, and served as visiting faculty for NEH-sponsored teacher institutes devoted to legal-constitutional topics. She has very nearly completed a book, 'Belonging to the World': Women's Rights and American Constitutional Culture (under contract, Oxford); she is also organizing an essay collection in American constitutional history and looking toward publication of another book about constitutional rebellion in the west after 1818. Professional awards include the AHA Littleton-Griswold Research Grant (1989) and the Michigan Board of Governors Distinguished Faculty Award (1993); service includes work with several OAH committees, the JER Board of Editors, the ASLH nominating committee (as member, 1992-94, and chair, 1994) and an associating editorship for American National Biography.

Victoria Woeste

Victoria Saker Woeste is a Research Fellow at the American Bar Foundation, where she conducts research in American Legal History. She received her B.A. from the University of Virginia in 1983 and her Ph.D. in Jurisprudence and Social Policy from the University of California at Berkeley in 1990. In a former life she taught legal history and American Studies at Amherst College. The Society's Series in Legal History at the University of North Carolina Press will publish her book, The Farmer's Benevolent Trust: Law and Agricultural Cooperation in Industrial America, a study of the legal, economic, and social transformation of commercial agriculture and the relationship between regulation and markets in the twentieth century. The dissertation earned the Herman E. Kross Dissertation Prize from the Business History Conference in 1993. She has contributed articles on twentieth-century legal history to Law and History Review, Business and Economic History, Reviews in American History, The Supreme Court Justices: A Biographical Dictionary, and Federalism and the Judicial Mind. As a member of the ASLH she served on the H-Review Committee (which evaluated the Society's relationship to the H-Law discussion list on H-Net) during 1993-94, was a member of the Program Committee for the 1992 Annual Meeting, and will be on the H-Law Board of Editors during 1995-96.

Nominating Committee

Alfred S. Konefsky

Alfred S. Konefsky is Professor of Law at the State University of New York at Buffalo. He received a B.A. from Columbia University in 1967 and a J.D. from Boston College in 1970. He was co-editor of Volumes 1 and 2 of The Legal Papers of Daniel Webster (1982, 1983). In addition, he has published a number of articles and review essays in the Buffalo Law Review, Harvard Law Review, Law and History Review, Michigan Law Review, Stanford Law Review and the Virginia Quarterly Review. Professor Konefsky has received fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the American Bar Foundation. He has served in a variety of capacities for the American Society for Legal History, including membership on the Annual Program Committee, the Committee on Publications, the Editorial Board of Law and History Review from 1988 to 1992, and as Book Review Editor of the American Journal of Legal History from 1970 to 1977. He recently was first a member, then chairperson, of the James Willard Hurst Prize in American Legal History Committee for the Law and Society Association.

David J. Seipp

David J. Seipp is a Professor of Law at Boston University School of Law. He received an A.B. in History from Harvard College, a B.A. in Jurisprudence from Oxford University, and LL.B. in Legal History from Cambridge University, and a J.D. from Harvard Law School. He has taught English Legal History, American Legal History, and the History of Legal Thought at Boston University since 1986. He received a faculty fellowship from the John M. Olin Foundation in 1988-1989 and was an Associate at the Charles Warren Center of Harvard University in 1994-1995. He has published articles in the Law and History Review, the Oxford Journal of Legal Studies, the Proceedings of the British Legal History Conference, and other journals. His recent articles have dealt with English common law between the thirteenth and seventeenth centuries and have focused on Roman legal categories, concepts of property, reception of canon and civil law, reporting of criminal cases, and the structure of the common law. He has served the Society as a member and as chair of the Surrency Prize Committee. At Boston University, he is the coordinator of the Legal History Group, which invites six legal historians each year to speak to the Boston legal history community.

Rayman L. Solomon

Rayman L. Solomon is Associate Dean of Northwestern University School of Law. He has been a member of the Society since 1974 and has served on the Board of Directors and as a member of the Committee on Documentary Preservation. He has chaired the Nominating Committee, the Program Committee (1987), the Committee on Conferences and Meetings, and Local Arrangements. He received his B.A. from Wesleyan University (1968), his J.D. from the University of Chicago (1976), and Ph.D. in American History from the University of Chicago (1986). He directed the Seventh Circuit History Project, and was a law clerk to Chief Judge George Edwards (U.S.C.A. 6th Cir). He taught as a Bigelow Fellow at the University of Chicago and was a Research Fellow at the American Bar Foundation before joining Northwestern. His areas of writing and research are the legal profession and the federal judiciary in the twentieth century. He has written a history of the Seventh Circuit and is co-editor (with Robert Nelson and David Trubek) of Lawyers' Ideals/Lawyers' Practices: Transformations in the American Legal Profession. His essay in the volume is "Five Crises or One: The Concept of Legal Professionalism, 1925-1960."

Carol Weisbrod

Carol Weisbrod is Ellen Ash Peters Professor at the University of Connecticut School of Law. She attended Vassar College and graduated from Columbia Law School (1961). After working on the legal staff of the American Jewish Congress and in the administration of Yale Law School, she entered law teaching. She has been at the University of Connecticut School of Law since 1977. She is the author of The Boundaries of Utopia, and numerous articles. She has taught and lectured in the United States and abroad, largely in the areas of contracts, commercial law, church/state and family law, with a particular stress on historical background and pluralist and feminist theory.

New Journal on Online Law

On June 19 Editor TROTTER HARDY announced on the H-Law net the launching of a new electronic periodical entitled the Journal of Online Law. The contents of the first issue included:

M. Ethan Katsh:

"Cybertime, Cyberspace and Cyberlaw"

Mark A. Lemley: "Rights of Attribution and Integrity in Online Communications"

David G. Post: "Anarchy, State, and the Internet: An Essay on Law-Making in Cyberspace"

A. Michael Froomkin: "Anonymity and its Enmities"

According to Editor Hardy:

"The idea of JOL is to publish essays about the new issues of law and online communications--law and cyberspace. This is not the place for detailed review of particular court decisions, or for advice on specific situations; it is not the place for a lengthy analysis of a particular issue either. Countless publications like newsletters, law firm practice updates, and law reviews provide outlets for those different and worthy endeavors.

The Journal of Online Law is rather aimed at concisely framing and exploring the key legal issues arising from networked communication; at speculating a bit about future trends; and in general, at trying to bring interested readers some interesting reading about the law of cyberspace."

The Journal's Advisory Board includes:

- THOMAS R. BRUCE, Co-Director, Legal Information Institute Research Associate, Cornell Law School
- DAVID R. JOHNSON, Chairman, Lexis Counsel Connect Chairman, Electronic Frontier Foundation
- M. ETHAN KATSH, Professor of Legal Studies, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
- PETER W. MARTIN, Jane M.G. Foster Professor of Law and Co-Director, Legal Information Institute Cornell Law School
- HENRY H. PERRITT, JR., Professor of Law, Villanova University School of Law
- DAVID G. POST, Visiting Associate Professor of Law, Georgetown University Law Center
- JEFFREY RITTER, Program Director, Eclips, Ohio Supercomputer Center

Electronic Public Information Newsletter

VOL. 5, NO. 10; May 19, 1995 includes the following:

1. FORRESTER'S QUEST FOR A FOR PUBLIC DATABASE OF FEDERAL CASELAW: U.S. District Court Judge J. Owen Forrester (Atlanta) is conducting an informal, personal campaign to try and convince the eleven federal Circuit Courts to make their opinions available at electronic archives for free public access. Forrester believes that several archives would be established at universities in various parts of the country. At the same time, he made it clear that he is not engaged in any effort to create a public domain legal citation system, and that he has no formal or informal relationship on this matter with the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ). He denied even knowing DOJ Official Paul Friedman, who had been linked to the Forrester effort by press reports. He stressed that his efforts are personal, and that he will probably not try to involve the U.S. Judicial Conference.

2. NPR SPONSORS FEDERAL EFFORT TO CENTRALIZE INFORMATION: The National Performance Review (NPR) is sponsoring a multi-agency government effort headed by the U.S. Postal Service to bring electronic government services to the American people. Designated WINGS (Web Interactive Network of Government Services), the effort aims to deliver integrated government services to the public via a variety of systems, i.e., kiosks, the Internet, private online services, and through interactive cable television. WINGS is an outgrowth of the work of the Interagency Kiosk Committee, which has just completed the study, The Kiosk Network Solution: An Electronic Gateway to Government Services, for the Consumer Service Improvement Team of the Government Information Technology Services Working Group, a subgroup of the Information Infrastructure Task Force (IITF).

3. WHITE HOUSE WEB LEADS LIBRARY OF CONGRESS' THOMAS IN USAGE: The Welcome to the White House web at mid-May was averaging 133,615 daily transactions as compared to approximately 33,000 daily transactions for THOMAS, the congressional online service run by the Library of Congress. Since the White House web went online on Oct. 20 until this week, the system has processed 27.2 million transactions. THOMAS since coming online on January 5 through May 6 has processed 3.7 million transactions. Other popular federal government web homepages include FedWorld at the National Technical Information Services, NASA, and Treasury Department.

History Computerization Projects on the Internet

If you visit the History Computerization Project home page on the Internet, you will find: 1) An online order form to request the free, printed, History Database tutorial on the use of computer database management for historical research, writing, and cataloging, and current schedules of the project's free workshops and exhibits. 2) Historical photographs displayed on the computer screen. 3) Links to historical resources at libraries, archives, museums, universities, and organizations around the world -- push a button and you are connected to the Library of Congress, the Regional History Center, the Singapore Museum, or the Louvre.

The computer project's Internet address is "http://www.history.la.ca.us/history". If you are not yet on the Internet, to request the free tutorial, contact: History Computerization Project, 24851 Puma Road, Malibu, CA 90265-3036, USA; Phone: 818-HISTORY, 818-591-9371; E-mail: "history@history.la.ca.us".

The History Computerization Project of the Regional History Center of the University of Southern California and the Los Angeles City Historical Society, in cooperation with the Conference of California Historical Societies, is building a history information network for the exchange of information between historians, librarians, archivists, museum curators, preservation groups, and historical societies. The project employs the History Database program, running on IBM PC compatible computers. The program is used for both cataloging and research with all types of historical materials, including photographs, museum objects, archives, books, journals, and oral history interviews. The course textbook, Database Design: Applications of Library Cataloging Techniques, by David L. Clark, is published by the TAB division of McGraw-Hill.

NEWS NOTES

Missouri Valley History Conference

The 39th Annual Missouri Valley History Conference will be held in Omaha, Nebraska, March 7-9, 1996. Proposals for papers and sessions in all areas of history are welcome. Such proposals, accompanied with one-page abstract and vitae, should be sent by October 15, 1995. Contact: Dale Gaeddert Chair MVHC, University of Nebraska at Omaha, Omaha, Nebraska 68182.

The Society of Military History holds sessions as part of the MVHC. Please send proposals for papers and sessions on military history topics to Mark R. Grandstaff, History Department, Brigham Young University, 414 KMB, P.O. Box 24446 Provo, UT 84602.

Restricted Access to Harvard Law Library Special Collections

To prepare for a major renovation, the Special Collections Department of the Harvard Law School Library will reduce its hours to the public effective July 1, 1995. New hours will be Monday through Friday, 1-5 pm. The Department's three units, consisting of the Legal Art Collection, the Manuscripts Collection, and the Rare Book Collection, will be equally affected while preparations are being made for the closure of the Library building in June 1996. Portions of the Rare Book and Legal Art Collections will become unavailable as they are moved to off site storage.

During the renovation itself, the entire Rare Book Collection will be closed to public access. However, the majority of the Manuscript Collection will remain accessible, as will the print and photography portions of the Legal Art Collection. Service to all of the collections will resume during the 1997/1998 academic year. Researchers contemplating work in these collections should contact the appropriate curators as soon as possible:

News From ACLS

The Mellon Foundation has just awarded $100,000 for creation of an "American Arts and Letters Network." This will be a webpage that draws together all the electronic resources in the arts and humanities. The American Council of Learned Societies is a co-sponsor of this along with CNI and Vassar College; it will be mounted at Vassar.

The Getty Art History Information Project is currently running an electronic discussion on research agendas in arts and humanities computing. They've commissioned eight papers, have made these available electronically, and are moderating a discussion that reacts to these papers. If you want to participate, send an e-mail message to majordomo@ahip.getty.edu. Leave the message line blank, and have the following message: subscribe discussions [your e-mail address] e.g. subscribe discussions doug@acl.org. You can also view the papers and the discussion by visiting their website: URL=http://www.ahip.getty.edu/agendas. For user i.d. type

"agendas;" for password type "research." From the website you can't send e-mail, but there are hypertext links to some interesting projects.

The ACLS-SSRC Joint Area Committees

A Statement by the ACLS Board
May, 1995:

"For more than four decades, the joint area committees of the ACLS and SSRC have played critical roles in helping scholars to attain deep understanding of critical languages and cultures outside the United States, in focusing research on significant issues and topics, and in developing the scholarly infrastructure required to support foreign area research."

"The joint committees are unique in their ability to play these roles. They have gathered together respected and diverse groups of scholars to give continuing attention to the purposes and requirements of foreign area scholarship. By keeping a broad, national and increasingly international focus on education and training needs, research agendas, and infrastructure requirements of foreign area scholarship, they have facilitated the deployment and redirection of both intellectual and financial resources to address new needs and challenges."

"In underscoring their importance over several decades, we also note that their contributions have changed over the course of their existence. In their earlier years, for example, they nurtured the development of area studies as fields of scholarly inquiry and encouraged the creation of area studies organizations. More recently, they have begun to attend to the training of scholars and the development of scholarly infrastructure outside the United States, particularly in areas with less well-developed systems of higher education, and have promoted collaboration between U.S.-based scholars and those abroad."

"Continued sponsorship of these joint committees is a pre-eminent priority of the American Council of Learned Societies.

In discussions with the Social Science Research Council and with potential funders for the joint committees, we believe consideration should be given to the following:

1. Preparation of scholars grounded in language and culture.

The education and training of successive cohorts of scholars with significant understanding of the language(s) and culture(s) they are studying are particularly urgent now that the federal government is decreasing its support of exchange and research programs, and many U.S. universities are eliminating programs and reducing the number of languages in which they offer instruction.

2. Purposes of research. the joint committees should focus both on research directed toward issues of manifest public importance and on more basic long-term research. Policy-relevant research possesses clear immediate relevance, but basic research lays the foundation for issue-specific inquiry and sets a context for understanding new developments.

3. Integration of perspectives. We believe this to be an unusually fruitful time for nurturing scholarship which integrates perspectives from the humanities and the social sciences. The formation of new interdisciplinary fields such as cultural studies and the emergence of interest in questions of identity, religion and nationalism are just two indications of this. There are unusual opportunities, too, to draw in perspectives from the natural sciences, on issues such as climate, nutrition, environment, and population. The "dual mandate" (areas studies and comparative and transnational approaches) has been a valuable initiative of the past few years, and we have not begun to exhaust the possibilities of implementing it.

The area studies fields have changed and matured a great deal over the past decade. It is now more essential than ever to have scholarship which is firmly grounded in an understanding of language and culture, sophisticated in its use of methods and perspectives from one or more disciplines, and attentive to how research in one area of the world may have manifest significance in comparative or global terms. In terms of research planning, it is scholarship with these characteristics--a three-legged stool--that the joint committees should nurture. We believe that an array of geographically-organized committees, each focusing on a major culture area of the world, will be most successful at nurturing such integrative scholarship.

4. Scholarly communication and library resources. The efforts of the joint committees have contributed to the development of communities of scholars in a number of countries. The challenge now is to improve the procedures for regular interchange among scholars separated by considerable distance. If properly deployed, the new electronic technology may facilitate this. The joint committees may also be in a position to foster distributed and collaborative strategies for making library resources available in electronically networked formats for the benefit of scholars both in the United States and abroad.
5. Committee appointments. Those appointed to serve on joint committees should have both significant understanding of at least one foreign language and culture, and also a significant grounding in a discipline. We urge appointment of scholars from a wider array of fields in the humanities and humanistic social sciences, and we believe foreign scholars should be represented on all of the joint committees.
6. Administration and Budget. We understand from SSRC that the joint committees in recent years have faced deficits in their operating budgets. This will need to be addressed in setting a course for the future, but any administrative or budgetary rearrangements should proceed from a clear understanding of the purposes and functions we want the joint committees to serve. Some administrative savings may be possible in creating a more unified process for handling fellowship applications and awards.
7. Oversight by the two Councils. The intellectual vitality, legitimacy and influence of the joint committees depend on their joint sponsorship and coordinated administration by the ACLS and the SSRC. The creation of the Joint Advisory Committee on International Programs (JACIP) has improved the quality of joint oversight by the two Councils. Its purview over appointments to the committees should be strengthened. We should also explore ways to strengthen further the processes (staff and committee) for jointly setting intellectual directions and exercising administrative oversight."

Vanderbilt Prizewinner at Rutgers-Camden

Dean of Students ELAINE G. DUSHOFF at Rutgers University School of Law-Camden, announces that MR. BRIAN O. LIPMAN of Colts Neck, New Jersey, is the recipient of the fourth Arthur T. Vanderbilt Prize in Legal History awarded by their school.

The prize, given for the first time in 1992, was established due to the initiative of longtime ASLH member NATALIE E.H. HULL who is a member of the faculty at Rutgers-Camden. The prizewinner gets a one-year, fully paid membership in ASLH with all of the prerequisites and privileges thereunto accruing.

Visiting Scholar

John Beckerman will be Visiting Professor of Law at Rutgers School of Law, Camden, New Jersey, for the 1995-96 academic year.

AVAILABLE INFORMATION

Library of Congress Publishes New Edition of Cataloging Aid

The Library of Congress Cataloging Distribution Service has released a new, Seventh edition of Free-Floating Subdivisions, listing all subdivisions designated as "free-floating."

Free-floating refers to a form or topical subdivision assigned by the subject cataloger under designated subjects without the usage being established editorially, and therefore, without the usage appearing in the subject authority file under each individual subject heading. The guide is published annually.

Free-Floating Subdivisions, 7th edition, also is useful to those searching for information in the Subject Cataloging Manual: Subject Headings, in which free-floating subdivisions appear. The price for Free-Floating Subdivisions, 7th edition, is $25 in North America, $30 outside North America.

Order from Library of Congress, Customer Services Section-FSUB, Cataloging Distribution Service, P.O. Box 75720, Washington, D.C. 20541-5017; telephone: 800-255-3666 (U.S. only) or 202-707-6100; TDD: 202-707-0012; fax: 202-707-1334; internet: edsinfo@mail.loc.gov

Library of Congress Publishes New Guide to European Collections

The European Division of the Library of Congress has announced publication of Library of Congress European Collections, An Illustrated Guide to provide scholars and researchers with an overview of holdings dealing with the European continent and the former nations of the former Soviet Union. This is the fourth in a series of guides to Library collections published with the support of the Madison Council, the Library's national, private-sector advisory body dedicated to helping the Library share its unique resources with the nation and the world. Guides published earlier describe the Library's music, theater, and dance holdings; its Manuscript Division collections; and materials in the Rare Book and Special Collections Division.

While the three earlier guides describe holdings in particular divisions, the new European publication covers materials held throughout the Library. Chapters in the new guide describe holdings in humanities and social sciences, the arts, science and technology, special collections, rare books and manuscripts, maps and "European Americana and American Europeana." It includes a brief researcher's guide to use of these collections.

Library of Congress European Collections, An Illustrated Guide is an 80 page paperback publication containing 31 color and 19 black-and-white illustrations. It was prepared under the direction of Michael Haltzel, former chief of the European Division, with contributions from the division's staff of specialists and research librarians. It is available for $9.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, P.O. Box 371954, Pittsburgh, PA 15250-7954. Cite stock number 030-001-00155-5.

Directory of Scholars Interested in Latin American and the Caribbean

VICTOR URIBE of the History Department at Florida International University is compiling a Directory of scholars and institutions in Latin America, the Caribbean, the US and elsewhere working on the legal history of Latin America and the Caribbean. This Directory will be made publicly available. If you are working on legal or law-related research and writing, or know of institutions which should be represented in the Directory, contact Professor Uribe at the History Department, Florida International University, University Park, Miami, FL. 33199.

MONEY AVAILABLE

Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars Fellowships

Located in the heart of Washington, D.C., the Center awards approximately 35 residential fellowships each year for advanced research in the humanities and social sciences. Men and women from any country and from a wide variety of backgrounds (including government, the corporate world, the professions, and academe) may apply. Applicants must hold a doctorate or have equivalent professional accomplishments. Fellows are provided offices, access to the Library of Congress, computers or manuscript typing services, and research assistants. The Center publishes selected works written at the Center through the Woodrow Wilson Center Press. Fellowships are normally for an academic year. In determining stipends, the Center follows the principle of no gain/no loss in terms of a Fellow's previous year's salary. However, in no case can the Center's stipend exceed $61,000. Travel expenses for Fellows and their immediate dependents are provided.

The application deadline is October 1, 1995. For application materials write to: Fellowships Office, Woodrow Wilson Center, 1000 Jefferson Drive S.W., SI MRC, Washington, D.C. 20560. Tel: 202-357-2841.

Spencer Dissertation Fellowships

The Spencer Foundation was established by Lyle M. Spencer, founder and president of Science Research Associates, Inc. (SRA). Because Mr. Spencer's wealth derived largely from SRA's success in publishing educational materials, he wished the Spencer Foundation to dedicate its resources to "investigating ways in which education can be improved, around the world." To achieve this goal, the Spencer Foundation supports research that gives promise of yielding new knowledge about education, in any of its many forms, in the United States and abroad. The Foundation assists studies with a wide variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary approaches to this end.

In its Dissertation Fellowships, the Spencer Foundation seeks to encourage a new generation of scholars from a variety of fields to undertake research relevant to the improvement of education. The Foundation believes that scholarly insight from many different disciplines can contribute to an understanding of education as a fundamental human endeavor and advance our ability to address significant current issues in education. Therefore, the Spencer Dissertation Fellowships support individuals whose dissertations show potential for bringing fresh and constructive perspectives to the history, theory, or practice of formal or informal education anywhere in the world.

Applicants must be candidates for the doctoral degree at a graduate school in the United States; however, applicants need not be citizens of the United States. These fellowships are not intended to finance data collection or completion of doctoral course work, but rather to support the final analysis of the research topic and the writing of the dissertation. For this reason, applicants must document that they will have completed all pre-dissertation requirements by June 1, 1996, and must provide a clear and specific plan for completing the dissertation within a two-year time frame.

Although the dissertation topic must concern education, graduate study may be in any academic discipline. In the past, fellowships have been awarded to candidates in anthropology, architecture, art history, economics, education, history, linguistics, literature, philosophy, political science, public health, psychology, religion and sociology, but eligibility is not restricted to these fields. Candidates should be interested in pursuing further research in education once the doctorate is attained. Successful applicants have had dissertation topics as diverse as parent and teacher activism in the postwar struggle for school desegregation in New York City; the determinants of educational inequality in contemporary Kenya; gang affiliation, Chicana/Mexicana identity and language use; building mathematics through conversation; and developing narrative structure: a cross-cultural analysis.

Applications must be submitted on forms printed by the Foundation. These forms may be requested from:

Spencer Dissertation Fellowships Program, Catherine A. Lacey, Program Officer, The Spencer Foundation, 900 North Michigan Avenue - Suite 2800, Chicago, IL 60611-1542, tel:(312) 337-7000.

Supporting documents include a current graduate school transcript, letters of reference, a brief personal statement, a dissertation abstract, and a narrative discussion of and work-plan for the dissertation not to exceed eight double-spaced pages that are either typed or produced on a letter quality printer.

Approximately 30 non-renewable fellowships will be awarded. Recipients of the fellowships will receive $17,000 to support completion of the dissertation. This amount must be expended within a time limit of two years and in accordance with the work plan provided by a candidate in the application. Fellows may not accept employment other than described (if any) in the application nor may they accept other awards providing duplicate benefits without the written permission of the Program Officer.

Requests for required application forms must be received by October 13, 1995. Completed applications must be postmarked by October 25, 1995. Notification of awards will be in April, 1996. Tenure of awards may begin no earlier than June 1, 1996.

NEH Reference Materials Awards

The National Endowment for the Humanities Reference Materials Program supports projects to prepare reference works that will improve access to information and resources. Support is available for the creation of dictionaries, historical or linguistic atlases, encyclopedias, catalogues raisonnées, other descriptive catalogues, grammars, databases, textbases, and other projects that will provide essential scholarly tools for the advancement of research or for general reference. Support is also available for projects that address important issues related to the design or accessibility of reference works. The application deadline is November 1, 1995 for projects beginning after September 1, 1996. For more information contact: Reference Materials, Room 318, NEH, Washington, DC 20506 or via e-mail at JSERVENTI@NEH.FED.US.

National Humanities Center Fellowships 1996-97

The National Humanities Center supports advanced study in history, languages and literature, philosophy, and other fields of the humanities. Each year the Center awards residential fellowships to scholars of demonstrated achievement and to promising younger scholars. Applicants must hold doctorate or have equivalent professional accomplishments. Younger scholars should be engaged in work significantly beyond the revision of a doctoral dissertation. Most fellowships are for the academic year (September through May), though a few may be awarded for the fall or spring semester. Scholars from any nation may apply for fellowships. In addition to scholars from fields normally associated with the humanities, representatives of the natural and social sciences, the arts, the professions, and public life may be admitted to the Center if their work has humanistic dimensions.

Funding for fellowships at the Center derives from private foundation grants, income from the Center's endowment, and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Deadline and Application Procedures:

For application material write to:

Fellowship Program, National Humanities Center, Post Office Box 12256, Research Triangle Park, NC 27709-2256.

Applicants submit the Center's forms, supported by a curriculum vitae, a 1000 word project proposal, and three letters of recommendation. Applications and letters of recommendation must be postmarked by October 15, 1995.

Pennsylvania HMC Scholars in Residence Program

The Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission invites applications for its 1996-97 Scholars in Residence Program. The program provides full support for full-time research and study at any Commission facility, including the State Archives, the State Museum, and 26 historical sites. Residencies are available for four to twelve consecutive weeks between May 1, 1996 and April 30, 1997, at the rate of $1200 per month. The program is open to all who are conducting research on Pennsylvania history, including academic scholars, public sector professionals, independent scholars, graduate students, writers, filmmakers, and others. For further information and application materials, contact: Division of History, Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, Box 1026, Harrisburg, PA 17108; 717/787-3034. Deadline is January 12, 1996.

Dissertation Grants For Women

The Coordinating Committee on Women in the Historical Profession, the Conference Group on Women's History, and the Berkshire Conference of Women Historians announce their annual competition for a $500 Graduate Student Award to assist in dissertation work. Applicants must be women graduate students in history departments in the U.S., but may be in any field of history. For applications, write Professor Shirley J. Yee, Award Committee, Women Studies Program, Box 354345, University of Washington, Seattle, WA 98195.

Aspen Institute Nonprofit Sector Research Grants

The Nonprofit Sector Research Fund makes grants for research on a wide range of nonprofit issues, but focuses on important topics that have received limited attention. A variety of disciplines and research methodologies are supported, including basic data development. Collaborative studies that link researchers and nonprofit agencies are encouraged, as are studies that address the diversity of organizations and populations involved in the sector. Of primary interest to the Fund are studies with broad, sector-wide implications that address major issues and have the potential to inform public policy and benefit nonprofit practices.

In addition to supporting scholars who are already working in this field, the Fund encourages applications from scholars new to the field, practitioners, scholars from disciplines not well represented to date (psychology, political science, and anthropology, for example), doctoral candidates, women, and minorities.

The Nonprofit Sector Research Fund is particularly interested in studies that investigate basic propositions about the role and value of nonprofits and the tradition of philanthropy both in the United States and in other countries. The Fund invites comparisons among sectors and cultures as well as regional analysis of these issues. Although priority will be given to research that addresses questions in the Fund's areas of interest, applications on other topics will be considered. The Fund also operates grantmaking programs in California and Michigan. In addition to encouraging proposals in the areas of interest outlined in its national program guidelines, the Fund is interested in research addressing financial and human resources, technology, the economic impact of nonprofits, and other issues affecting the sector in these states.

An important component of the Michigan Program is the W.K. Kellogg Nonprofit Research Fellowship, which is open to doctoral students conducting research on the Michigan nonprofit sector. Proposals are accepted from students in any academic discipline at any institution, but preference is given to students attending Michigan universities.

Deadlines: There are two research grant cycles per year. Research proposals for both the national and regional programs must be postmarked by January 1, for the first cycle with notification in June, or by June 1 for the second cycle, with notification in December.

Applications for the W.K. Kellogg Nonprofit Research Fellowship are due April 15, and applications for the William Randolph Hearst Endowed Scholarship for Minority Students are due April 7.

Detailed guidelines and application forms are available for each of the research, fellowship and scholarship programs. For further information, contact: David Williams, Program Coordinator, Nonprofit Sector Research Fund, The Aspen Institute, 1333 New Hampshire Ave., Suite 1070, Washington D.C. 20036. ACLS Fellowship and Grant ProgramsACLS Fellowships

(Please note that summer fellowships and research expense grants are not available.)

Deadline: October 2, 1995

Amount: $20,000 maximum

Period: 6-12 months to be initiated between July 1, 1996 and February 1, 1997

The Fellowship Program of the American Council of Learned Societies supports postdoctoral research in all disciplines of the humanities and the humanities-related social sciences.

The ACLS Fellowships do not exceed $20,000 and are intended as salary replacement to help scholars devote six to twelve continuous months to full-time research and writing. Tenure of the grant may begin no earlier than July 1, 1996 and no later than February 1, 1997.

The ACLS Fellowship may be held concurrently with other fellowships and grants and any sabbatical pay, up to an amount equal to the candidate's current academic year salary. Under no circumstances, however, may both an ACLS Fellowship and an ACLS/CCK or ACLS/SSRC Joint Area Studies award be accepted if offered in the same competition year.

This program is supported in part by endowment grants received from the Ford Foundation, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the Rockefeller Foundation. Requests for application forms must be received by September 29, 1995. Completed application forms must be postmarked no later than October 2, 1995. Decisions will be announced in mid-March 1996.

Grants for Travel to International Meetings Abroad

Deadline: February 1, 1996

Amount: $500

Period: For meetings June 1, 1996 to June 1, 1997

The ACLS, in cooperation with its constituent societies, administers a program of travel grants, awarded on a competitive basis, to assist scholars in all fields of the humanities and humanities-related social sciences to participate in international meetings held outside the United States and its dependencies. This program is funded by the Gladys Kriebel Delmas Foundation. Applicants must hold the Ph.D. or terminal degree in their field, must be citizens or permanent residents of the United States, and must be scheduled to read a paper or to have some other major, official role in the meeting. Preference will be given to individuals reading scholarly papers over those performing other administrative roles.

The grants are $500, and are meant to offset air travel from and return to the United States and other essential expenses of attendance, such as registration fee, food and lodging. Requests for application forms must be made by individuals on their own behalf, and must be received by January 29th. Completed applications must be postmarked no later than February 1, 1996. Decisions will be announced in mid-April, 1996.

Fellowships are also available for doctoral and post-doctoral research work in various areas of the world. November 1, 1995 is the deadline for almost all of them. For further information, contact the ACLS office at 228 East 45th St., New York, NY 10017-3398.

Programs Administered by Related OrganizationsCouncil for International Exchange of Scholars

The Council for International Exchange of Scholars (CIES), an affiliate of the ACLS, administers the Fulbright Scholar Program for research and university lecturing abroad in cooperation with the United States Information Agency (USIA). The awards for 1996-97 include about 1,000 grants in research and university lecturing for periods ranging from two months to a full academic year. There are openings in over 135 countries and, in many regions, the opportunity exists for multi-country research. Fulbright awards are granted in virtually all disciplines, and scholars in all academic ranks are eligible to apply. Applications are accepted from retired faculty and independent scholars.

The basic eligibility requirements for a Fulbright award are U.S. citizenship, Ph.D. or comparable professional qualifications, university or college teaching experience for lecturing assignments, and, for selected countries, proficiency in a foreign language. There is no limit on the number of Fulbright grants a single scholar can hold, but there must be a three-year interval between awards.

AAS 1996-1997 RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS

WORCESTER, MA, June 30, 1995--The American Antiquarian Society (AAS), in order to encourage imaginative and productive research in its unparalleled library collections of American history and culture through 1876, will award to qualified scholars a number of short- and long-term Visiting Research Fellowships during the year June 1, 1996 - May 31, 1997.

Several categories of awards are offered for scholarly research at AAS. One category provides funding (from the National Endowment for the Humanities) for four to twelve months' residence at the Society, while the other categories provide one to three months' support. The stipends for each of the short-term fellowships have been increased for the 1996-1997 competition. Research Associate status (without stipend) is available to qualified applicants. Through an arrangement with the Newberry Library, AAS encourages applications for joint short-term fellowship tenure in both Chicago and Worcester.

Fellowships offered are as follows:

AAS-National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowships - for four (normally six) to twelve months of support (maximum $30,000) for research on any subject on which the Society has strong holdings. Although the normal minimum is six months, NEH guidelines now permit the Society to arrange tenure of four to five months in certain circumstances. Not open to foreign nationals (except those who have been resident in the U.S. for at least three years) or to degree candidates.

Kate B. and Hall J. Peterson Fellowships - for one to three months' support (at $950 per month) for research on any subject for which the Society has strong holdings. Dissertation writers and foreign nationals are eligible.

AAS-American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies Fellowships - for one to two months' residence (at $950 per month) by persons working in any area of American eighteenth-century studies. Degree candidates are not eligible.

For all these fellowships, the deadline for receipt of completed applications, including letters of recommendation, is January 15, 1996. Announcement of the awards will be made on or about March 25, 1996. At least two AAS-NEH fellowships will be awarded, together with some fourteen to sixteen short-term awards.

A brochure containing full details about the fellowship program and information about the Society's collections, along with application forms, may be obtained by writing John B. Hench, Director of Research and Publication, Room A, American Antiquarian Society, 185 Salisbury St., Worcester, Massachusetts, 01609-1634, or by telephoning (508) 752-5813 or 755-5221. E-mail requests must include a postal address and should be sent to cfs@mark.mwa.org.
